INDICT SHIPPERS AND RAILWAYMEN

Officials of B. & O. and Lehigh Roads Involved.

REBATING IS CHARGE MADE

Chicago Men Accused of Buying Goods in Europe and Accepting Back Payment from Companies Mentioned.

New York, Nov. 17. — Thirteen indictments accusing officials of the Baltimore and Ohio and Lehigh Valley railroads and seven members of shipping firms of rebating were filed by the federal grand jury in this city.

The indicted men are Thomas J. Jarvis, vice president, and Clarence A. Blood, freight traffic manager, of the Lehigh, and Robert B. Ways, foreign freight agent of the B. & O. Mr. Jarvis and Mr. Blood went before Judge Martin in the criminal branch of the United States circuit court as soon as they heard of the indictments. They pleaded not guilty and were bailed in $5,000 apiece by the United Fidelity and Guarantee company before Commissioner Shields. Mr. Way's plea of not guilty, made by his lawyer, also was accepted.

The shipping men indicted are Jules E. Bernard of Bernard, Judae & Co.; Maurice Ascher, of Gallagher & Ascher; Oscar F. Kosch, trading as Chas. D. Stone & Co.; Albert E. Craser, president of the American Shipping company; August Bontoux, president of the International Forwarding company, and George W. Sheldon and Henry W. Ackhoff, president and vice president of George W. Sheldon & Co. All the indicted shippers live in Chicago.

The indictments are said to be unprecedented because all of the merchandise involved in the alleged rebating were shipped from Europe. It is charged that foreign agents of the railroads arranged with foreign agents of the shipping companies to grant a 10 per cent rebate if goods to be sent to American cities were billed over the Baltimore and Ohio or the Lehigh. Some time after the goods reached their destinations in this country the railroads, it is alleged, made the 10 per cent rebate.

The stuff on which the alleged rebates were given range from linen to nutmegs. District Attorney Wise said he had no idea of the amount of cash involved.

Anderson House, Largest in County, Totally Destroyed by Fire.

Eaton Rapids, Mich., Nov. 17.—When the Anderson house was burned this town suffered the loss of its only hotel, the largest in Eaton county and the largest building in Eaton Rapids. For a time the whole east side of Main street was threatened, but a call for assistance brought help by special trains from Charlotte and Lansing, and with the combined efforts of the three dearitments fire was confined to the hotel, which was totally destroyed, with a loss of fully $35,000.

The insurance on the building is $8,500 and on the contents $1,500. The hotel was owned by H. H. Hamilton, H. P. Webster and J. B. Hendee, and was conducted by J. E. Kelsey. Kelsey's loss is $3,000, with $1,500 insurance. The Masonic temple and the Leonard sanitarium were badly damaged, but their losses are covered by insurance. The Anderson house was built in 1872 by the late G. M. Anderson. It will be rebuilt.

MORE STOCK TO BE ISSUED BY POWELL CO

At a meeting of the stockholders of the C. W. Powell Mfg. Co., held Thursday evening, the matter of financing the increased business of the concern was settled by deciding to issue the eight hundred remaining shares of the original issue of two thousand shares authorized at the time of incorporation. Last season the officers of the concern did not think it advisable to issue this stock, as the business was not large enough to justify the use of this amount of money. However, additional working capital is now imperative, in order to properly care for the business.

A statement of the affairs of the company was read and showed a very gratifying condition. This is not an additional issue, but the portion of the original authorization not issued last spring.

ITALIAN TROOPS FIRING ON ARABS

PHOTOS COPYRIGHT 1911 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

Tripoli, Nov. 17.—The Italian soldiers and the Arabs are engaged in continuous fighting on the outskirts of the city. The Italians, as a rule, fight from behind breastworks or walls. Sharpshooters on both sides are constantly on the watch, many of them being posted on tops of buildings. Walls of sand and stone have been constructed in many places. Occasionally where there are no walls available ditches are dug or ramparts of stones or sand are hurriedly thrown up. In some cases the soldiers themselves have piled up little heaps of sands, behind which they lie while directing their rifle fire.

WAYMAN ON DEFENSIVE

State's Attorney Details Methods in Bribe Inquiry.

Maintains That He Investigated White's Confession to Establish Its Truth or Falsity.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Sharp questioning intended to show, as he said, that the bribery charges in the election of William Lorimer as United States senator, were the result of a "conspiracy," was put by Elbridge Hanecy, attorney for Mr. Lorimer, to State's Attorney Wayman before the senatorial investigating committee.

Mr. Wayman had told of his steps to prosecute Lee O'Neil Browne, who was accused in Charles A. White's confession of having paid "jack pot" and "Lorimer money" to White.

Attorney Hanecy asked Wayman whether, in bring an indictment against Browne, the state's attorney had neglected to follow up the clues that might lead to material evidence.

"We might have called Mr. Lorimer before the grand jury; he might have given material evidence, but we didn't feel we could get him," answered the witness. "In addition, we had many clues brought to us, which we didn't follow up because we didn't regard their source as authentic."

In sending out agents and detectives to investigate the confession of White that he and others accepted bribes to vote for Lorimer, Mr. Wayman said his purpose was to corroborate the story, if it were true, or to disprove it, if it were not true. He denied his purpose was solely to substantiate the story. The fact that the confession, in his opinion, was amply corroborated was due to the evidence obtained from those named by White as being in St. Louis when the "jack pot" money was alleged to have been distributed.

GETS PERE MARQUETTE

Michigan Railway to Pass into Control of Hawley.

Line Will Give Hawley Group Advantageous Connection with Hocking Valley.

Boston, Nov. 17.—Negotiations are in progress whereby Edwin Hawley, through the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad, will take control of the Pere Marquette railroad from J. P. Morgan & Co., where it is now lodged by virtue of ownership of 110,000 shares of Pere Marquette common.

As a part of the trade there will be given to the Chesapeake and Ohio an option on a substantial majority of the $11,000,000 preferred stock of Pere Marquette now outstanding.

Acquisition of Pere Marquette will add another link to the Hawley group, as it will make an important connection with Hocking Valley in the development of business to the northwest.

FAVORS 1912 PRIMARIES

Republican Chief Says Poll Should Be Under Legal Sanction.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 17.—Prior to a meeting of the Republican state central committee here Frank Knox, chairman, in an interview gave his views upon the proposal made by the LaFollette campaign committee for presidential primaries.

"I always have been in favor of primary elections," said Mr. Knox. "If anyone can show me that the state central committee can hold a primary that will give an expression of any considerable percentage of the Republican voters I will favor it.

"But it is doubtful in my mind if a primary instituted by the state committee without legal sanction would not do more harm than good by testing the primary idea as applied to presidential nominations under most unfavorable conditions."

ANNUAL PRAISE SERVICE

PRESBYTERIAN HOME MISSIONARY MEETING HELD THURSDAY.

The Presbyterian annual home missionary praise service was held Thursday afternoon in the chapel of the church and was one of the most satisfactory ever held by the society. Miss Ada Norton presided. Mrs. Victor Lane of Ann Arbor, Presbyterial president, gave an impressive thanksgiving talk. She spoke, too, of the death of Mrs. Delos Finks, who had been the editor of the Home Missionary Monthly since its inception twenty-five years ago.

Miss Ostermoor, who is now assistant to Rev. Mr. Cameron, pastor of Emanuel Church, Detroit, gave a fine talk on the Indians, having been a missionary among them for six or seven years.

Mrs. Lee Townsend sang a vocal number. A nice picnic supper was enjoyed. The women feel gratified that the thankoffering should have amounted to nearly forty dollars.

DETROIT MAN GETS 65 FOR TAKING AN APRON

Otto Miller was arrested Thursday on a charge of the larceny of a blacksmith's apron. He was arraigned this morning before the local justice and pleaded guilty. The justice sentenced him to 65 days in the Detroit House of Correction.

Miller who claims Detroit as his home, made the rounds of the various blacksmith shops in Ypsilanti Thursday. On the pretense of securing work he secured small loans on the promise that he would return and work. During the dinner hour Thursday he went to William McDermott's shop, it is claimed, and borrowed permanently, Mr. McDermott's apron which he failed to return.

EXECUTION OF ARAB AT TRIPOLI ARROW INDICATES BODY

COPYRIGHT 1911 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

Tripoli, Nov. 13.—The Italian troops here under command of General Caneva are conducting the war with unusual severity. Executions are of daily occurrence, scores of Arabs having been faced against walls and shot down. The accompanying picture shows the execution of an Arab courier attached to the German consulate. By virtue of his position he was permitted to carry arms. He stabbed two Italian soldiers in a fight, and, though the soldiers were not dangerously wounded, he was tried by court marital and was sentenced to death. He was shot while sitting on a bale of hay facing a wall. He was instantly killed, his body toppling over to one side.

ROOSEVELT HITS POLICY OF TAFT

Colonel Says Trust Dismemberment Is Ineffective.

SITES TOBACCO COMBINE SUIT

Declares That Neither the Anti-Trust Law Nor Any Modification of It Can Meet Situation Confronting Government.

New York, Nov. 17.—The nearest approach to a break betwen Theodore Roosevelt and the Taft administration since the former president returned from Africa came in the publication of an editorial in the Outlook in which Colonel Roosevelt criticises pitilessly the trust dismemberment policy of the federal officials and advocates complete govermental supervision of indurstrial corporations as the best means of assuring a "square deal" for both the corporations and the people.

The colonel ridicules the theory that the recent supreme court decisions ushered in an "era of competition," a belief expressed by President Taft in his Detroit speech; casts doubt on the progressiveness of those who hold to this view and characterizes their attitude instead as "sincere rural toryism."

Mr. Roosevelt cites the recent settlement of the tobacco trust litigation as proof that the present national policy simply leaves a monopoly unimpaired, though in different clothes, and immune from prosecution or control.

Colonel Roosevelt declares that he went over the full trust situation with Secretary of the Interior James R. Garfield and quotes from a letter written to him by Garfield relative to the steel trust suit, in which Mr. Garfield said:

"Nothing appeared before the house committee that made me believe we were deceived by Judge Gary in the Tennessee Coal and Iron absorption. The position now taken by the government is absolutely destructive to legitimate business, because they outline no rule of conduct for business of any magnitude."

Mr. Roosevelt then lines up flatly against Attorney General Wickersham and the law officers of the present administration by declaring he was not deceived in permitting the Tennessee Coal and Iron merger, which is one of the grounds upon which Mr. Wickersham has asked the dissolution of the United States Steel corporation.

Significant or not, according to the view of the reader, will be Colonel Roosevelt's declaration that the methods of corporation regulation worked out and put in force in the state of Wisconsin furnish an acceptable model for a federal system.

The writer does not mention Taft or LaFollette by name.

The editorial is one of the most caustic the colonel has yet penned, declaring that neither the anti-trust law nor any modification of it can meet the situation that confronts the government.

AGED COUPLE VISITS FRIENDS IN YPSILANTI

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Putnam of Akron, Iowa, have been spending some time in the city the guest of the former's sister, Mrs. H. Seaver. Mr. Putnam, who is 82 years old, and his wife who is 75 years of age, celebrated their fifty-seventh wedding anniversary at the home of a grandson in Joplin, Mo., Oct. 8. The anniversary supper served in Joplin, Mo., was at the same hour at which the wedding ceremony was performed in Smithport, Pa., 57 years ago. Following the supper Mr. Putnam was presented with a gold headed cane by the family. He had been a resident of Cedar Rapids, Iowa, for 40 years, having moved there from Pennsylvania in 1856. Besides the sons and daughters at the anniversary supper, there were five grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Mr. Putnam voted the last ticket of the Whig party for President, but the democrats won. In 1856 he rode on horseback 28 miles over the Dividing Mountains of Pennsylvania to vote for John C. Fremont, the first nominee of the Republican party; but the Democrats won.

Mr. Putnam, although 84 years old, is well preserved, being active and appearing to be not more than 60 years old.

A RATIONAL ANALYSIS.

In perusing the current press reports, we are often impressed with the fact that from out of the rural press comes some of the best analyses of public questions. Nothing of late has created so much commotion, nor so much criticism, as the suit of the government against the steel trust. The president has just returned from an extensive trip across the country and back. It is more than likely, that he felt entirely satisfied that the country would back him up in this issue. Any comment, then, from the editor of a rural paper from out of the republican stronghold of Iowa is of more than passing interest.

"Wallace's Farmer," edited by Henry Wallace, is one of the ablest of the farm journals. We quote the following from its leading edutorial in its last issue on the suit against the steel trust: "The administration has attacked the very citadel of the trust—its citadel because the men who control that trust control the majority of our leading railroads, our leading banks and a large section of big business, generally. The steel trust is a common meeting-place, or center, from which much of the big interest of the country can be controlled. There was little disturbance in business when the oil trust or the labor trust was attacked. Their stock showed but little variation. But when the steel trust was sued a shiver passed through the financial world.

"The question which this suit presents is not whether trusts or great organizations of capital shall continue to exist, but whether these trusts shall be conducted for the benefit or the country or its oppression. This is the real question now before the United States, and on its right solutions depends the question of whether we shall continue to be a free people. It will not be settled soon. The brightest minds in the country will contend that there is a sort of divine right that strong able men with large resources should conduct the business of the entire country; that they have the power, financial and otherwise, and can be trusted to do this business better than the people themselves. The president should have the support of the people, even if it does bring duller times and lower prices, for sooner or later it must be determined whether this government is a government by the people, or by an aristocracy of wealth. In the readjustment necessary if we are to continue a free people or to regain the liberties we have already lost, this conflict must come, and there is no better point around which to wage it than the steel trust, which has been favored by tariff, of which it has confessedly no need, and which has already entered into an international agreement, by which the supply of the different sections of the world are given over to certain manufacturing sections and by which the price of its product is fixed for the common people far above that which is justified by the present conditions of our civilization.

"Our readers, therefore, without regard to party, should study the developments closely and be ready to give their support to any candidate without regard to his party, who stands for justice between man and man. Any movement to readjust the tariff or to give increased power to the railroad commission will have to meet and deal with precisely the same organization, which is attacked by this suit against the steel trust. The action of Congress and the alignment of men and parties in the next two years will be a matter of absorbing interest to every patriotic citizen."

It seems to be the concensus of opinion that the recent state elections in the various parts of the country have demonstrated one thing more clearly than all other things, and that is that the independent vote, so called, was never so large and never so independent as now. And so it is becoming increasingly more dependent to view issues upon their merits and to vote accordingly. Wallace's Farmer is appealing to this very same independent element, for he says further, "For his courage in attacking this citadel, President Taft deserves the support of men of all classes. When he deals with men, he often wabbles, for he does not know men; when he deals with politicians, he does some queer things, for the politicians can easily fool him; but when he starts to enforce the law, he seems to be safe and sane, for he is an excellent lawyer and an experienced judge." He is likely to have the unanimous support, practically, of the American people, in his action against the steel trust, and the same people will continue to extend or withhold their support from him on other measures in accordance with their judgment upon the questions at issue on their merits alone.

M'GOVERN'S PRESENCE WAS COSTLY TO RESTAURANT KEEPER.

There is a German restaurant keeper in Hoboken, N. J., who froths at the mouth when the name of Terry McGovern is mentioned. When Terry was champion he played in a show in Hoboken. The Deutsch boniface saw a chance to boost his place and invited Terry to eat there free gratis. He accepted. Then Mr. Boniface informed Hobokenites in general of the portentous event. The night of the dinner arrived. Everybody in Hoboken was outside looking in. The crush was so great that the mob kept leaning on the big show windows. This tickled the host immensely.

TERRY M'GOVERN.

"Go away," he shouted, "and let Mr. McGovern eat!" The crowd hooted. Suddenly the big windows gave way under the pressure, and a number toppled into the place. "Mein hevens!" shouted the boss. "There go mine windows, worth $400, and I have no insurance.

"Mr. McGovern," he added, "please stop eating and go some other place."

WOLGAST TO FIGHT ABROAD.

Champion Seeks Fresh Fields to Conquer Budding Lightweights.

Lightweight fighters are so few in number in this country that Champion Ad Wolgast and his manager, Tom Jones, plan taking a trip to Australia, England and France. Like most other champions, Wolgast is tired of resting so long between each contest. He desires more battles and less rest. The only way he thinks his wishes can be gratified is by going across the water, and after the combat with Freddie Welsh on the coast Thanksgiving day the men will depart.

Many boxers rank themselves in the lightweight division, but when it comes to making the weight insisted upon by Wolgast they disappear. Wolgast, like other champions, refuses to give away extra weight to men who stand a chance of beating him. He will fight at his own figures and take on any one.

All About the Pig.

A little boy's first composition was about a pig. This is the way he wrote it: "Pigs are very queer animals. The pig has its uses. Our dog don't like pigs. His name is Nero. Our teacher read a piece one day about a wicked king named Nero I like good men. My papa is an awful good man. Men are very useful. They have a great many uses which I can't stop to tell them all. This is all I can think of about the pig."

Harvard and Yale Ready For Annual Clash on the Gridiron

By TOMMY CLARK.

THE elevens of Harvard and Yale are ready for their annual clash on the gridiron to be played in Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 25. This game will mark the close of the big eastern season. From present indications the game should be hard fought from start to finish.

A close analysis of the Harvard-Yale elevens shows that they are very evenly matched. Yale has a slight advantage in weight, and perhaps its line is a little speedier. But the Crimson back field eclipses the Blue in all departments.

Harvard has two fast ends in Smith and O'Brien. They outclass the Yale pair, Francis and Avery. Smith is one of the best end men playing the game this season. He is a hard tackler, a swift runner and a great handler of the forward passes. Crimson supporters pin their faith in the ability of Smith and O'Brien to effectively prevent the speedy Captain Howe from making any of his long runs. Yale has also two good subs in Bomeisler and Sheldon.

At the tackle positions it is a tossup. The Yale pair, Paul and Scully, have a little more experience than Captain Fisher and Hitchcock, but the last two mentioned have the weight which may count for much in the coming battle.

Yale seems to have an edge in the matter of guards. Loree and McDavitt have played a consistently good defensive game all season. Leslie of Harvard has also played a good game, but McKaeys, who has succeeded Fisher, the latter going to tackle, has had but little practical experience.

Ketcham is a heavier man at center than Storer and in all around ability is superior to the Crimson middle man.

At quarterback Yale excels Harvard. Captain Howe is one of the best ever turned out at Yale. He is a great field general and a splendid manipulator of the forward pass and a fast runner with the ball and an accurate kicker. He will be the man that Harvard will have to watch in the coming game. Crimson has a good quarterback in Potter, but he does not class with Howe.

Harvard has the better back field men. Campbell, Wendell and Huntington are equally proficient at either rushing through the line or skirting the ends. Wendell, a consistent ground gainer, is perhaps without a peer in the game this season. Campbell is a very fast runner in a broken field, while Huntington, "the Harvard strong man," is what his name implies —a power in advancing the ball and stone wall on the defense.

THREE OF CRIMSON LEADING PLAYERS.

Yale's principal weakness, as shown in several games, was at fullback, where Anderson has failed to show the improvement expected of him. The former Wisconsin man is awkward and does not handle the ball cleanly. There is a chance that Anderson will not be used in this game and that either Freeman or Spalding may be placed at the position. Both of these men have shown in recent games that they are versatile and dependable. Spalding's specialty is picking openings and kicking, while Freeman is a hard man to bring down. He, too, is a good kicker, and with the punting done by two men the Elis will not find it necessary to plan to save the kicker in the big game with Harvard. One or both players will surely be used in some place in the back field.

Philbin is a good runner and not easy to stop, but it is hard to tell just when he will make a disastrous fumble.

If Harvard makes the same mistakes as she did in the recent battle with Princeton, Yale will win. In the game with the Tigers Harvard relied on Wendell to carry the ball most of the time, and all the Tiger men had to do was to play him. They watched Wendell like a hawk and generally smothered his rush before he got started. He did get through many times, but did not make any great gains.

Harvard and Yale have met on the gridiron thirty times since 1876, in which time Harvard has won only four games, four have been tied, and Yale has won twenty-two. Up until 1908 Harvard had not defeated Yale since 1901, when Campbell's great eleven, considered by many critics as one of the best that ever handled a football, triumphed by a score of 20 to 0 over a Yale eleven that had beaten Princeton a week before. The list below shows the record of the Yale-Harvard games since 1876:

1876—Yale, 1 goal; Harvard, 2 touchdowns. 1877—no game. 1878—Yale, 1 goal; Harvard, 0. 1879—Yale, 2 safeties; Harvard, 4 safeties. 1880—Yale, 1 goal 1 touchdown; Harvard, 0. 1881—Yale, 0 safeties; Harvard, 4 safeties. 1882—Yale, 1 goal 3 touchdowns; Harvard, 2 safeties. 1883—Yale, 4 goals; Harvard, 1 touchdown 1 safety. 1884—Yale, 6 goals 4 touchdowns; Harvard, 0. 1885—no game. 1886—Yale, 5 goals; Harvard, 1 touchdown. 1887—Yale, 3 goals 1 safety; Harvard, 1 goal. 1888—no game. 1889—Yale, 1 goal; Harvard, 0. 1890—Harvard, 2 goals; Yale, 1 goal. 1891—Yale, 1 goal 1 touchdown; Harvard, 0. 1892—Yale, 1 goal; Harvard, 0. 1893—Yale, 1 goal; Harvard, 0. 1894—Yale, 12; Harvard, 4. 1895-6—no game. 1897—Yale, 0; Harvard, 0. 1898—Harvard, 17; Yale, 0. 1899—Yale, 0; Harvard, 0. 1900—Yale, 28; Harvard, 0. 1901—Harvard, 22; Yale, 0. 1902—Yale, 23; Harvard, 0. 1903—Yale, 16; Harvard, 0. 1904—Yale, 12; Harvard, 0. 1905—Yale, 6; Harvard, 0. 1906—Yale, 6; Harvard, 0. 1907—Yale, 12; Harvard, 0. 1908—Harvard, 4; Yale, 0. 1909—Yale, 8; Harvard, 0. 1910—Yale, 0; Harvard, 0.

The probable lineups of the two elevens will be:

Hockey Party Saturday.

The Hockey Team which was organized last winter and, with Geoffrey Jefferson as manager, will give a dancing party Saturday evening at Rowima. A very considerable interest in ice hockey has been aroused in the city. The indications are that about a score of the younger men in the city will play and, when dates are secured with outside teams, a team of seven out of the twenty will be chosen. The Ypsilanti team will probably meet teams from Windsor, Sarnia, Cleveland and Detroit during the season. The team will do its practising and hold the Ypsilanti meets at the skating rink north of the Congress street bridge, having been granted passes for the season by Mr. Weinberg, the proprietor. Mr. Weinberg has also furnished some of the equipment.

Study the Dutch.

The Ypsilanti Study Club met Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Edward Wardroper. The name of Mrs. F. H. Nissly was added to the list of associate members. The excellently planned program was carried out in every detail. Mrs. Grace Brown treated of "The Royal Family of Holland," Mrs. W. L. McCullough told of the literature of the Dutch people, tracing it in its development from the 16th century to the present time. Mrs. C. T. Allen's subject was "Dutch Industries and Exports." It was shown that, owing to the peculiar formation of her land, many avenues of industry, such as mining, were closed to this country. Still, much had been achieved and her dairy products have a wide fame. It was remarked that in the Michigan town of Holland the native Dutch thrift was suggested in the fact that there are only two houses in the city for rent at any time. Mrs. S. J. Logan of Toledo was a guest of the club. The club accepted the invitation of the Ypsilanti Woman's Club to meet with them on November 29. Then the club abjourned until December 6.

Bert Wilbur of Indianapolis will spend the week-end in Ypsilanti with his brother, Fred Wilbur, attending the game at Ann Arbor on Saturday. Mr. Wilbur is plant engineer of the engineering department of the Bell Telephone company for the state of Indiana.

Why She Chose the Gown.

A woman in Cherryvale, Kan., was allowed her choice between a new parlor rug and a summer gown. The Journal says that after three sleepless nights she decided on the dress. YUUR GRAY NAIRS QUICKLY VANISH

A HARMLESS REMEDY, MADE FROM GARDEN SAGE RESTORES COLOR TO GRAY HAIR.

A feeling of sadness accompanies the discovery of the first gray hairs, which, unfortunately, are looked upon as heralds of advancing age. Gray hairs, however, are not always an indication of advancing age, for many people have gray hairs quite early in life. Of course, it is unnatural, and indicates that there is something wrong with the individual, and that Nature needs assistance in correcting the trouble. The same is true of hair that is constantly falling out and becoming thinner every day. If everything is right with Nature, the hair even in comparatively elderly people, should be long, thick and glossy, without even a streak of gray.

The ideal assistant to Nature in restoring and preserving the hair is Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy, a clean and wholesome dressing for daily use. It not only removes dandruff but strengthens weak, thin and falling hair and promotes its growth. A few applications will restore faded or gray hair to its natural color.

Get a bottle today, and let it do for you what it has done for thousands of others.

Opinion Unflattering.

During the ninth annual dinner of the Traffic club of Pittsburg, President George F. Baer told this story: "Now, I do not altogether agree with your toastmaster that the public has any great respect for the ability of railroad magnates. I think they do possibly overrate their capacity. I had a very peculiar experience last summer. I was sitting on my porch in Reading after dinner, smoking a cigar, when up the walk came a very tall man with a carpet bag in his hand. He stopped at the bottom of the steps and said: 'Be you the president of the Reading railway?' I drew up my shoulders and said I was. Then he walked up the steps and said: 'What is the price of a ticket from here to Niagara Falls and back?' I said: 'My dear friend, I do not know. You will have to go down to the ticket office. Do you know where it is?' He said: 'Yes,' picked up his carpet bag, looked at me, and said: 'You are the president of the Reading railway and don't know the price of a ticket to Niagara Falls and back!' Well, I said I didn't. Then he walked down and steps and turned and said: 'You are a hell of a railroad president.'"

BEGIN IT TODAY.

That good old saying, "A stitch in time saves nine," is proved over and oer in our daily life.

For example, when you begin to feel out of sorts, don't want to eat, and don't seem as strong as usual, if you would begin right away to use Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation without oil, you could easily put yourself in good trim again with one bottle, or less. But when you wait and grow worse all the time, it is bound to take more.

We just got a letter from Mrs. Mary Glynn of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., who says: "When my health became rundown last March I took prompt action to improve it and was told that Vinol was the best thing to build me up. Using one bottle of Vinol has made me well and strong again."

Don't put it off another day. If you feel the need of more strength and better blood, or if one of your family is weak and sickly, Vinol will give renewed strength and energy. If it does not, we will give you back your money. Weinmann-Matthews Co., 118 Congress street.

TO MAKE SHIPS UNSINKABLE

Plan Was Tested on Board the North Carolina.

COMPRESSED AIR USED.

Engineer Asserts It Will Buoy Up a Vessel After Collision—Captain Marsh Thinks the Method May Revolutionize Naval Warfare.

A method for keeping water from entering ships through holes by compressed air was tested on board the North Carolina while she was in the Hudson river during the recent mobilization of warships at New York. Captain C. C. Marsh, commander of the North Carolina, conducted the experiment in person. Afterward he spoke enthusiastically of the method. He says it will prevent vessels from going to the bottom following collisions or when hit by torpedoes or mines. He thinks it will revolutionize marine warfare.

The method does not depend on any device or mechanical invention. It is merely an adaptation to the compartments of ships of the science of air pressure as already applied to tunnel building. The young engineer to whom the method first occurred and who helped Captain Marsh apply it to the North Carolina is W. W. Wotherspoon, one of the engineers of the New York subway as well as of the East river and the Pennsylvania tubes.

The method consists of sealing up the compartment in the vessel where the hole is. Compressed air is then forced into it through a tube, which has already been installed and connected with the air compressors of the vessel, such as on a battleship are used to expel explosive gases from guns after firing.

Engineer Explains.

According to Mr. Wotherspoon, it takes only from three to twenty pounds pressure a square inch to force out all the water in the compartment to the level of the hole.

The trouble with putting twenty pounds a square inch pressure into a ship's compartment is that it will cause the deck above or sides of the compartment to buckle, and that is where Mr. Wotherspoon's method comes in. In order to keep the decks and bulkheads around the damaged compartment from buckling a lower pressure is used in the adjoining compartments. This, it is said, keeps the deck above and the bulkheads between compartments in place.

If the water tight compartments of vessels were always really air tight the discovery and use of the new method, according to Captain Marsh, would not be so important, but water tight compartments never are really water tight. No matter how tightly a compartment is locked up on a vessel, practical experience always shows, according to Captain Marsh, that the water finds its way into other compartments just as it did in the case of the ill fated Republic.

"If the captain of the Republic had understood the method we have tried today and if the different compartments of his ship had been equipped with the simple system of pipes, air gauges and air compressors we have used the vessel would never have sunk," said Captain Marsh.

Assisted by Mr. Wotherspoon Captain Marsh tried the experiment on a forward compartment on the North Carolina under the protection deck. When the seacocks were opened and the water was allowed to rush in and fill the compartment the vessel listed to starboard a trifle. Compressed air was then forced into the tank. In about ten minutes after the air pump was started there was no water in the tank.

Captain Marsh's Opinion.

Simultaneously with the exertion of the twelve pound pressure in the supposedly damaged compartment a seven pound pressure was pumped into all the surrounding compartments, thus keeping the decks and bulkheads safe. A three pound pressure similarly was exerted in the compartments next to those in which the seven pound pressure was used.

"This new method will revolutionize the business of ship saving," said Captain Marsh. "When I applied to the navy department recently to be allowed to try out the method I asked it to send me some pipes and air gauges, so that I could connect every compartment on my vessel with the air compressing plant.

"When I was making the experiment this morning the attention of the man at the air gauge wandered for a minute, and a few too many pounds pressure got into one of the compartments. The result was that the deck above began buckling and would have burst had the sailor not noticed what was happening and given the signal to turn the pressure off.

"Every battleship in the navy can make itself practically unsinkable by applying to Washington for $125 worth of supplies in the shape of pipes and gauges. This new method will permit us in a naval action or after a collision to repair all holes beneath the water line from the inside."

Fair Plans Complete.

Queen City Hive, No. 64, L. O. T. M. M., have completed plans for a fair to be held in the Maccabee Hall Thursday and Friday afternoon and evening, Nov. 23 and 24. One of the features will be the Japanese booth which will be artistically decorated in the quaint Japanese style and will be in charge of two ladies and a child dressed in native costume. In this booth will be Japanese doilies, dresser covers, etc., made from real Japanese toweling, and Japanese tea for sale. In addition to this booth there will be fancy work, handkerchief and candy booths and refreshments will be served in the dining room. Mrs. Edwin Kraft, deputy commander, of Ann Arbor was present at the last meeting Thursday evening and drilled the officers in floor work. Mrs. Austin White of Milan, a former member, was also present.

A Pleasant Celebration.

Monday, Nov. 13, was the 50th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ellsworth. Just one-half a century ago Wm. Ellsworth and his young bride were married in New Lebanon, N. Y. Wednesday this same bride gowned in her self-same wedding gown of fifty years ago and with the same wreath of orange blossoms crowning her hair stood up with her husband to receive the congratulations of a goodly company of old friends and neighbors. The parlor was decorated with beautiful yellow chrysanthemums. At noon a very bountiful dinner was served. Following this came a most delightful program of music and recitations. Sarah Parsons first sang the old song "Silver Threads Among the Gold" then as an encore gave "When You and I Were Young, Maggie." Andrew Campbell, former state senator, was then called upon for some remarks. He first rendered a Scotch song, then read some letters that had been written for this occasion by various members of his family. He closed with some stirring remarks that were received with much enthusiasm by all.

George Ellsworth then sang a solo, which was followed by two selections given by the male quartet consisting of Dan Ellsworth, Fred Parsons, Arthur Sherwood and George Ellsworth.

Dan Ellsworth then sang "Put On Your Old Gray Bonnet" followed by "Polly and I." A recitation was then given by Mrs. Harris, another solo by George Ellisworth, two recitations by Mrs. Carpenter followed by a charade in which one of the guests represented the city of Galveston by appearing in the old white wedding vest of the grom—a vest too small to be worn by him on this second memorable occasion. The quartet then gave two more numbers. As a final closing to this happy event the guests then rose and all joined in singing "Auld Lang Syne," "Swanee River" and "Blest Be the Tie That Binds." From out of town the guests were Mrs. Ella Covert and Ida Covert from Detroit and Mrs. Belle Barr Laraway from Grand Rapids. The guests were especially requested not to bring presents.

Mrs. P. W. Carpenter, Mrs. Ella Niblack and Mrs. Alton Lewis are representing the Ypsilanti chapter of the Eastern Star at the Washtenaw County association held at Manchester today. Mrs. Niblack and Mrs. Lewis will assist in the work.
